

What, how, and who did you share insights with?

I shared with my aunt during FHE.

What were you able to share with another person(s)?

I was able to share the story from Sister Bonnie L. Oscarson's talk 'Defenders of the Family Proclamation' from the packet. It was the story about Marie Madeline Cardon and how she dispersed a mob by the power of God's words, which were placed in her mouth. We talked about how God employs people in His work that others would dismiss as unfit.

What did you experience as you discussed or taught these concepts outside of class? How might this experience help you be a better person? If the experience was not a positive one, write about that too but in the context of what you learned from the experience to make you a better person.

It was a good experience, I felt the truth of the words as I spoke them and it made me happy to talk about God in that way. To remind me and my Aunt that we are fit for the work.

What did you learn about their experience, perspectives or what life is like for them? In what ways did this experience affect your relationship with this person(s) or influence your lives for the better?

My aunt contributed an understanding to the lesson when she took a moment to talk about pioneer bravery. She really has an understanding of the struggles of pioneers and the way that they were able to rise to the occasion.

What understanding or testimony did you gain or strengthen through this experience?

Because I was able to feel the truth of the words about how God calls people I feel like I can clearer see His plan for me and the directions He wants me to go in. He needs me, and everyone else, engaged in the work and by our faith He will make miracles come to pass through us.
